Foreword

IN choosing Traditions for a motif, we found that we were dealing with something that is of its very nature intangible. For, as a matter of course, what we are forced to picture in our Division and Sub-Division pages are the apparent traditions of the University Campus, and what we firmly believe to be traditional today, will be but a memory to the students of the years to come.

For Traditions must stand the test of time; and certain customs, that we as students are forming to-day, may through their strength and purpose pass through the crucible of years and become a vital, acting force in University life.

If then, in the compilation of the 1929 Sentinel we have managed to weld another link in the long chain of memories of college life, we feel that we have been successful in portraying Traditions as a motif.

Dedication

THIS University, our Montana, is the result of the work of men, who through their unceasing labors for the betterment of the University have left with us names that are themselves traditional. There are many names we would like to honor—teachers and students and others not so intimately connected with the campus—who without thought of personal gain have made possible the existence of this University as an institution of learning and have worked for its upbuilding.

To those who have in the past worked unceasingly for the good of the University: who, through their efforts have given us the heritage upon which to build lasting traditions for the glory and betterment of our University, and to those who are today working that we may receive in full measure the benefits of that rich heritage, we respectfully dedicate this volume, the 1929 Sentinel of the State University of Montana.

In Memoriam

DR. J. E. KIRKWOOD

College Chums

Old college chums, dear college chums,

The days may come, the days may go;
But still my heart to mem'ries clings.

To those college days of long ago.

Thru youth, thru prime, and when the days
Of harvest time to us shall come,

Thru all we'll bear the mem'ries dear,
Of those college days of long ago.

Montana, My Montana

Our chosen state, all hail to thee.

Montana, my Montana:

Thou hast thy portion with the free.

Montana, my Montana:

From shore to shore, from sea to sea.

Oh, may thy name full honored be.

Symbol of strength and loyalty,

Montana, my Montana.

Montana Fight

Hail, Copper, Silver, Gold.

Borne by our warriors bold:

'Tis the flag of the Grizzly Bear.

See those Bruins tearing their way down the field:

We know they never will yield.

On we'll go and trample down the foe.

Let's go, Montana, we love the fray.

The Grizzly fight, fight, fight will bring victory.

Let's go, Montana, We'll win today.

Hi. yi-yi. hi. yi. yi Montana.

With the throbbing drums.

Like a chief Montana comes.

Wearing as an ensign bold

Copper. Silver. Gold!

Hi. yi. the beating drums

Tell Big Chief Montana comes!

Hi. yi. the trumpets flare.

Says Big Chief Montana's here!

Hi. yi. yi. hi. yi. yi. yo. ho. ho. ya.

Human motivation is so complex that it defies analysis. It is, however, safe to affirm that motivation is a complex which grows out of a combination of past experiences, present stimulations and speculative achievements. Unquestionably tradition functions in the development of motivation because tradition is the "carry over" of the ideals and experiences of the past to the present. Because this is an indubitable fact the 1929 Annual makes a definite and rich contribution to Alma Mater by selecting TRADITIONS for its primary motif.

The two traditions that I desire to emphasize are first: accent and exemplify "the best" in educational thought and action, and second emphasize serviceableness within and without the State University. These two traditions bear the relation of cause and effect. They must be incorporated into the ideals and practices of every member of the State University household if they are to yield dividends which "carry over" from the past to the present and from the present to the future.

MELVIN A. BRANNON,
Chancellor

In this changing world it is to be hoped that more and more problems will be solved dispassionately and rationally rather than emotionally and traditionally. The method of solving problems from facts and working hypotheses has proved so successful in the fields of science and engineering that its extension to other fields seems desirable. On the other hand, since choice and action are so commonly emotional rather than judicial the preservation of these emotions that have resulted in lasting satisfaction and good is vitally necessary. The University stands for both sound judgment and the preservation, through traditions, of the ideals and aspirations of mankind; both are necessary for the life, the progress, and the happiness of society. I trust that this issue of "The Sentinel" will help in the preservation of some of the traditions which have proved to be of benefit and a source of satisfaction to the faculty and students of the State University of Montana.

C. H. CLAPP.

President

Tradition requires age. Age in universities mounts not into generations but into centuries. Our doings of today become the traditions of a hundred years hence. It behooves us of the present to build our actions in such a manner that what is to become custom and tradition should ever stand for that which is noblest, best and lasting in devotion and loyalty to this institution; being ever mindful that beneficial traditions are based upon the constructive worth while ideals of the student body of the now. The through will take care of itself

F. C. SCHEUCH.
Vice President

Traditions connect us with the past: most of Montana's well defined traditions perpetrate worth while customs, as Aber Day, Singing-on-the-Steps.

But choose your traditions wisely, for, as Will Rogers says, some famous colleges are hurt by "always having the Old Tradition drilled into them, instead of some forward passes." It is not tradition alone we want: it is inspiration. If a tradition furnishes an inspiration it is a good tradition.

Montana is young: the student body is not harnessed to a past: we can build new traditions of real merit as well as preserve the best in the old.

J. B. SPEER.
Business Manager

College traditions should be symbolic of the inner life of the student body and if "Singing-on-the-Steps" fails to intensify our loyalty to the University and to each other then there is no such thing as Montana Spirit and our most cherished tradition is an empty shell, a lifeless relic of the past.

J. E. MILLER,
Dean of Men

The traditions of the University of Montana are based on loyalty and service. May the goal of every student of today and tomorrow be an earnest desire to contribute the best that is in him toward the upbuilding of the institution and the preservation of its ideals and traditions.

The membership of the Associated Women Students is comprised of all women students who are enrolled in the State University. The beginnings of our women's self-governing body was in "The Women's League," founded in 1914. In 1920, the Women's League was organized for self-government with a board of executive officers to make the rules by which women are governed.

Representatives from each sorority and women's dormitory, Tanan representative, Big Sister chairman, W. A. A. Point System chairman, and Social service chairman make up the executive board.

AWS sponsors a number of social functions during the school year. Ethel Patton was chairman of Co-ed Prom, a social gathering of all University women, given during the fall quarter. Co-ed Formal is an all University dance which is given during the winter quarter and Dorothy Kiely was manager of this year's formal.

Central Board, the governing board of the University, manages all activities which are under the direction of the Associated Students and controls the expenditures of all student funds. The board meets weekly and is presided over by the President of the Associated Students of the State University.

The board includes all the ASUM officers, who are elected each spring by the student body, the Kaimin editor, the Student Auditor, the Yell King, and two faculty representatives.

School of Business Administration

H. C. Allen, Dean.

The School of Business Administration was first organized on the Montana campus in 1914, and today ranks among the largest schools at the University. The school gives training in its elementary courses for expert clerical work and in its more advance courses prepares the student for administrative positions in industrial and commercial organizations and in public service. It is the policy of the school to develop as rapidly as possible such training as will meet the needs of future executives.

The industrial world of today has, probably, the widest field of opportunity for the young man or woman of ability. The vast stores of nature's resources have as yet been scarcely touched and their proper exploitation for the benefit of the people requires thoroughly trained and specialized experts. The training of these experts is the work of the Business Administration school. It is here that theory is combined with practice and the student is instructed in the application of scientific methods to practical business work. Specialized training is given in marketing, foreign trade, credits and collections, selling, advanced accounting, money and banking, and corporation finance.

Alpha Kappa Psi, national commercial fraternity for men, and Gamma Epsilon Pi, a similar organization for women, have chapters on the Montana campus and these two groups in connection with the Commercial club, which is open to both men and women, are active in problems connected with the school.

School of Forestry

Montana's School of Forestry dates back as far as 1909 when the Government Forest Service, in co-operation with the University, established a Ranger School on the campus. The Forest Service, at this time, furnished all the lectures except in botany and surveying. In 1910 the Forest Service could no longer secure sufficient funds to continue the management of the school and so the University took it over. In 1913, the state legislature passed a bill establishing the present School of Forestry in the University. Today this school is recognized as one of the leading schools on the campus and draws its students from almost every state in the Union.

T. C. Spaulding, Dean

Probably one of the reasons for the Montana School of Forestry's popularity and high rating among forestry schools throughout the country lies in its location, for in the western states is found the greater portion of the timber supply of the United States. Within fifty miles of the school are the boundaries of nine national forests, and within one hundred miles are located seventeen national forests, five timber reserves and a national park.

Besides this, the school has a large forest nursery and has acquired fifteen hundred acres of timbered land to provide a forest workshop. Plans are under way at the present time to develop this land into a demonstration forest.

School of Journalism

A. L. Stone, Dean

During the fifteen years that the School of Journalism has been on Montana's campus, it has had startling growth. At the present time, its enrollment exceeds that of any other school. Dean A. L. Stone, under whose leadership the Montana School of Journalism has become widely recognized for its high standard of instruction and progress of graduates, founded the school in 1914.

Beginning with a few small tents for its classrooms, the school later moved into a small building that has since been destroyed. In the autumn of 1920, the school moved from there to its present location in Marcus Cook hall. "The Shack," as it is called, presents the features of newspaper work under conditions which parallel those which exist in a newspaper office. Students are given training in gathering, handling, and presentation of news as well as in managerial and editorial work. An important part of the curriculum is the study of news values and of current events. Professional training is combined with courses in the College of Arts and Sciences, so that graduates of the school may obtain preparation as broad and comprehensive as possible.

The Montana Kaimin, a semi-weekly newspaper, edited by the students, furnishes a valuable source of practical training. The work done here is identical with that required of the reporter on a daily newspaper.

Working Staff of the Kaimin

School of Law

The School of Law at the University has matured, during its eighteen years of existence on this campus, to one of the best of its kind in the west. Today it occupies a large three-story building in the center of the campus in which is housed the library, study rooms, class rooms and practice court rooms.

The library of the school has grown to include at the present time over twenty-three thousand volumes and is being added to each year at the rate of about one thousand volumes. To a great extent this large library is the result of generous gifts and legacies of Mrs. W. W. Dixon, and gifts of Judge John J. McElhatton and the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, which organization donated the seven thousand volume library of the late Senator W. A. Clark to the school last fall.

The school is a member of the American Association of Law Schools and as such is given a Class A rating for its high standards as outlined by the Association and recommended by the American Bar Association.

The standard case system of instruction, used by all the better law schools of the country is employed here. The faculty is composed of men who have a high rating in their profession. During the past year the school has been under the leadership of Acting Dean Walter L. Pope while Dean Leaphart has been taking advanced work at Harvard under a year's leave of absence.

School of Music

DEAN DELOSS SMITH

Under the leadership of Dean DeLoss Smith, the School of Music has completed its fifteenth year. Previous to this time there was no School of Music on Montana campus although instruction was given in piano. The School of Music offers a course which will permit students to become candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Music. Courses are offered in applied music, voice, violin, pipe organ, and piano; harmony, history of music, music education and a great number of others. A special course covering a period of four years, is maintained for supervisors and teachers of music in public schools. Observation work for this course is carried on in the city schools of music.

Students of the school have given a number of recitals during the year which have been enjoyed by townspeople as well as students.

The School of Music embraces a number of organizations which offer varied opportunities to students of ability. Sigma Alpha Iota, women's national music fraternity, has an active chapter on our campus and draws its members from students in the school who show outstanding ability. The University band, under the direction of Assistant Prof. Roy Freeburg, has added spirit to the pep rallies and games. Mr. Freeburg is a new member of the music faculty, coming here this year from the University of Washington.

THE PIANO ROOM

School of Pharmacy

Training in the various branches of pharmacy is given in the School of Pharmacy on Montana campus. Students are given courses which fit them to enter employment in fields as retail pharmacists, research workers, teachers, drug inspectors and analysts. Three and four year courses are offered but students are encouraged to complete the four year pharmacy course leading to the regular Bachelor of Science degree in Pharmacy. The three year course confers a degree of Pharmaceutical Chemist upon its graduates.

The school is under the direction of Dean Charles E. Mollett who has had great success in building up the school to its present high standard.

C. E. Mollett, Dean

One of the features of the School of Pharmacy is a drug garden which is maintained on the University grounds, which offers an opportunity for the study of the medicinal plants of Montana. The Bureau of Plant Industry and schools of other states have cooperated by sending plant specimens. The school is a member of the American Association of Pharmacy Schools and is rated first class by that organization. The school has membership in the State and National Associations of Pharmacy and is a member of the United States Pharmacopoeial Association.

Fearing that the western sombrero, which had proved so popular with the previous two graduating classes, was rapidly becoming a fixture on the Montana campus, the men of the Class of 1930 decided to find a different medium of expressing their individuality through class insignia.

After considerable debate as to the merits of various types of garbs, a maroon, sleeveless sweater, trimmed in gold and silver at the neck and with the numerals in gold on the left shoulder, was finally decided upon for the men.

Following the precedent set by the women of last year's class the senior women this year also decided to secure some form of class garb that would be exclusively feminine.

A white "V" neck sweater with the class numeral in black on the left pocket was the choice of the senior women; a choice which proved to be very popular.

In order that by their clothes they might be known, the Juniors annually select a distinctive garb. This year a green sweater with a deep "V" neck and the numeral "30" in black on the left side, was chosen.

The idea of the Junior garb originated with the class of '24, who set the precedent with gray corduroy trousers as their class attire. Gray corduroy trousers proved to be so popular that they were in vogue for the three succeeding years, when they were replaced by knickers.

In '27 bright red vests with gold numerals were adopted as the class garb, permitting women to share in the distinction of class apparel. Maroon-colored blanket coats trimmed with gold and silver and having the numeral '29 on the left pocket, was last year's insignia for the Junior class.

Exclusive class attire is rapidly becoming traditional on this campus and considerable thought is given by the succeeding classes as to the choice of attire.

In order that there might be at various times throughout the year some cessation from the hostility that is known to exist between the Freshmen and Sophomore classes all grievances are set aside and the Sophomores honor the Freshmen with a dance. The annual Sophomore dance is one of the enjoyable affairs of the year, and the Freshmen in order to show their appreciation tender a return dance late in the winter quarter.

Although the Freshmen are the guests of honor, all upper classmen are invited and this year an unusually large attendance enjoyed the under class social function.

Chaperones for the dance this year included: President and Mrs. C. H. Chapp, Dean and Mrs. Barly Miller, Dean Harriet Rankin Sedman, George Adams, and Robert Hendon.

Tanans, Sophomore women's honorary organization, corresponds to the Bear Paws, men's honorary organization. The two groups work together in enforcing all Montana traditions.

In the spring of 1924 the Women's Self Government association organized the Tanans, feeling the need of some organization on the campus that could enforce University traditions, to meet trains and to take care of the women guests at the track meets, to meet incoming Freshmen girls in the fall, and other duties that needed supervision.

Tanans are recognized by their gray coat sweaters with the copper, silver and gold emblems.

Bear Paw, Sophomore men's honorary organization, is one of the most active organizations on this campus.

The first group of Bear Paws was selected by Silent Sentinel, Senior men's honorary organization, on November 5, 1920. On a basis of service and commendable work during their Freshman year, Silent Sentinel chooses each fall a number of the second year men to carry on the work.

Bear Paw is the traditional law enforcing body of the University campus and it is mainly through their efforts that the Freshman class learns of the every-day traditions of the campus.

True to the traditions of the Freshmen, the class of '32 painted the "M" on Mount Sentinel, as is customary before the first home football game. The painting of the "M" is one of the traditions of the yearling class, and twice each year, the men of the class ascend the mountain to do their duty, leaving the freshmen girls at home to prepare lunch for their return.

The Freshman Traditions committee is appointed each year by the president of the class to see to it that all traditions connected with the proper maintenance of class spirit is observed.

The Sophomores were the guests of honor at the annual "Yearling Round-up" March 1. The chairmen of the various committees in charge of this dance were: Elliott Busey, publicity; Edward Dussault, music; Kenneth McDonald, hall; Steve Frohlicher, tickets; Lee Metcalf, programs; Elizabeth Perham, chaperones; Edith Conklin, decorations; Jack Thompson, refreshments.

Chaperones were Dean and Mrs. Burly Miller, Dean Harriet R. Sedman and Mrs. Theodore Brantly.

ATHLETICS

J. W. Stewart

STEWART

C Coach Jim W. Stewart came to the University of Montana in the fall of 1922 to take over the duties of football, basketball, and track coach. For two years, he was football coach and then was replaced by Click Clark to become director of athletics and head basketball and track coach. He has served continuously as basketball and track coach since coming here from the University of South Dakota and is now also serving as line coach on the football squad.

Major F. W. Milburn

Major Frank W. Milburn, head football and baseball coach, and head of the R. O. T. C. unit, came to the University in the fall of 1926 from Fort Benning, Georgia, where he was considered one of the best coaches in the South. Milburn is a graduate of West Point and was a star halfback on the Army elevens and was a catcher on the baseball teams. Under Milburn the Grizzly teams have developed a fighting spirit despite many difficulties and a shortage of good material.

MILBURN

Schreiber

Dr. W. E. Schreiber came to Montana in the spring of 1918 from Oklahoma State College to become head of the department of Physical Education. He organized and was for several years head of the health service. Until 1925, "Doc" was director of athletics. He coached the baseball teams of 1919 to 1922 and 1925. The physical education department now requires all of his time. Schreiber is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where he was a star athlete.

Harry Adams

Harry Adams has served the University in the capacities of both athlete and coach. He is one of the best athletes ever turned out by this school and was a mainstay of all the teams he was on. Adams won four letters in football besides playing on the basketball team and sprinting for the track squad. After graduating in 1921, Harry became graduate manager for one year. Since the fall of 1925, he has been freshman coach and director of intra-mural athletics.

Wardlaw

University of Montana athletics are under the direct supervision of the Athletic Board, composed of alumni, faculty and student members. The student representatives consist of the president of ASUM, who is chairman of the board, and the business manager and secretary of ASUM. Two members each are secured from the alumni and faculty. This board determines the athletic policy of the University.

Yell Kings

Burke

Fritz

Nelson Fritz has been Yell King at the University for two years. He was appointed by Central Board and serves as a member of that council. It is his duty to act as chairman of the Traditions committee, call and arrange programs for Singing On the Steps, appoint staffs of duties at games, co-operate with faculty and athletics coaches, and, most important of all, organize an efficient and enthusiastic rooting section.

Next to the game itself, the performance of the rooters' section universally commands the greatest interest. It is important for three reasons, the inherent interest in the spectacular, its evidence of strength of boundless vitality, and of overwhelming bigness, and the last, and most important, the "esprit de corps." It is necessary in every great community of effort that each participart should feel himself suffused with the power and purpose of the whole group. The cheer, in truth, is not merely noise or an expression of the fresh exuberance of youth, it is an essential part of the game.

In carrying out his duties, the Yell King spends hours of thought and planning to devise efficient means of producing enthusiasm and concerted action. Then, hard physical labor for the execution. After the game, he is as tired and fagged as any player on the team.

As Chairman of the Traditions committee, the Yell King organizes and arouses the spirit of the student body in carrying out the policies, traditions and customs of the campus. He works with the Bear Paws and Tanans, sophomore honorary organizations, in arranging that various traditions are carried out at the proper time and in the proper manner. He and his committee teach the yells, songs and history of student activities to the freshmen that they may become acquainted with the possibilities of the Student Body, when co-operation and concerted action are maintained.

Nelson Fritz has been active in his research work in connection with his duties of Yell King; he has introduced four or five new yells, and he gave the freshman permission to wear Varsity caps the day before and on the day of a game.

Edith Conklin is the first Yell Duchess the University has had for several years. Dukes for this year are Billie Burke, Alexis Anderson and George Hussar. They have carried out the projects of the Yell King efficiently and loyally.

Jerome Dahl, Varsity manager of the 1928 squad, was awarded the manager's M by Central Board. Dahl received his appointment last spring upon the recommendation of the coaches.

The manager's position is one of many responsibilities. His hours are longer than those of the players and in addition he must always be ready to care for the needs of the team. In order to receive the appointment he is required to spend at least two years and even more as an apprentice. Dahl proved to be an efficient manager. He will be succeeded by Frank Golob who has been appointed to that position. Other assistants were T. Smoot, Leonard Schulz, Joe Mayo, and Lewis Fetterly.

The 1928 Season

Louie Vierham
Line Coach

University of Montana's Varsity football team of 1928 was one consisting of a large number of sophomores that went through a season of ups and downs and then came back to whip Gonzaga, one of the most formidable teams on the coast. The big game of the year, that with Montana State, resulted in a scoreless tie. While the conference season resulted disastrously, Montana was forced to meet teams of national repute. Oregon State traveled across the continent to defeat the powerful New York University team while Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Washington State possessed men who received recognition on numerous all-star teams.

Facing two independent Mines league teams the same afternoon, Major Milburn split his squad in an attempt to give his sophomores an opportunity to display their wares. In each game the Grizzlies were content to score two touchdowns and then coast to victory, both games ending 13-0. Morrow was the whole show in the first game while Capt. Chinske and Carpenter were the most effective in the second. The work of Davis and Regalien working at the end positions was particularly brilliant.

Following the two early season practice games Montana met the invading Washington State squad and dropped a 26-6 game to the Cougars after forcing them to the limit during the first half. Feet Lewis, Grizzly center, was on top of the play when a Cougar back fumbled and, scooping the ball, he run 27 yards for the first counter of the game. Washington State trailed until well into the second quarter when she managed to push the ball over for a touchdown. Going into the third quarter with the score tied 6-6, Horan, Washington State back, broke away soon after the start and completed a long run for a marker that gave his team a lead it never relinquished.

Saturday, Oct. 13, Montana went down before the heavier and stronger University of Washington Huskies at Seattle. The Huskies, led by the All-American Carroll, pushed through a sea of mud early in the second period to assume a lead that could not be headed. As the game grew older the giant Washington squad slowly wore the Grizzlies down and then opened up in the third and fourth periods to run their total to 25. For Montana, Davis was outstanding with his all-around play. His punting was sensational and, with Waldo Ekegren, was the only Grizzly back to successfully gain against the heavy Washington outfit. Mellinger was still out with a bad shoulder and his fine defensive play was missed.

Major Milburn gave most of his veterans a rest during the School of Mines game and turned his sophomores loose for the afternoon in order that they might acquire as much experience as possible. Led by Carpenter and Moore the Grizzlies pushed the Miners from one end of the gridiron to the other but was unable to score more than twenty points while shutting out the Butte team. The Grizzlies gained over 600 yards from scrimmage during the afternoon while the Miners scored but one first down.

Following the "breather" game with the School of Mines Montana went to Butte to meet Montana State in a game that means as much if not more to each team than a conference championship. Montana State had started the season with a flare by trouncing Idaho in her own back yard and was doped to win from Montana. Anybody acquainted with Montana football knows that dope has no value in this game as was proved when the Grizzlies completely outplayed the Bobcats throughout the game. Both teams played cautiously, preferring to play a defensive game and wait for the breaks. Montana at one time drove deep into enemy territory until but five yards remained for a touchdown with three downs to go. The Bobcats stiffened their defense at this time and after two line bucks had failed, knocked down a pass for a touchback and possession of the ball. Davis was the outstanding Grizzly performer of the day. He punted sensationally and at one time broke away for a forty yard sprint to the Bobcat goal only to have the play called back because of a ruling in regard to the ball being dead. Captain Chinske, Ekegrer and Morrow played spectacular ball for the University while Captain Chez and Gardner were the Bobcat's greatest threats.

that day. Davis was Montana's best performer and was ably assisted by Murray and Peterson in the line.

A large Idaho team came to Missoula for the last home game of the year and proceeded to dampen the homecoming spirit by romping over the Grizzlies by a 21-6 count. Idaho was the first to score when they completed a forward pass for a short gain and a touchdown. Soon afterwards, Peet Lewis, always following the play, grabbed a fumble and sprinted 18 yards for a Montana touchdown. Idaho took advantage of a Montana fumble before the half ended and scored another six points on straight line bucks, which with the extra point gave them a 14-6 lead. Another Vandal touchdown resulted late in the fourth period following another Grizzly fumble, leaving the score at 21-6 when the game ended. The Montana line, led by Lewis and Murray, played extremely well. Time after time it stopped the bone crushing attacks of the big Idaho backs.

Major Milburn took his Grizzlies to the coast Nov. 24 to play before the second homecoming crowd within a week and was turned back by a great Oregon team 31-6. This game marked the beginning of an exhibition of football that lends encouragement to prospects for the 1929 season. Montana, while badly beaten, displayed an offense that carried plenty of power and finally pounded over a touchdown in the fourth quarter. The Grizzlies made 15 first downs and completed 11 out of 15 forward passes during the afternoon.

giving day, and came home with a well earned 7-0 victory. Gonzaga had previously won the Catholic championship of the West.

The winning touchdown came late in the second period when the Gonzaga safety touched a punt but failed to hold it and Rogulien recovered. Following this, line bucks with Chinske and Ekegren featuring, punched the ball over in six attempts. In the third period Ralls, big Bulldog back, broke loose for a 55 yard run but was dragged down from behind by Jerry Ryan on Montana's 8 yard line. Ted Mellinger, Jimmy Morrow and Marsh Murray were other Grizzlies who stood out in this game although the whole team turned in a creditable exhibition.

Freshman Football

Babcock

Seventy freshmen turned out for the initial football practices, and from this number Harry Adams, freshman coach, finally selected a team that turned in a creditable performance in its only collegiate game of the year, that with Montana State frosh which was won 22-17.

Murray

Previous to the Bobkitten tilt the Cubs had beaten Fort Missoula in two contests 48-7 and 44-6 with the light frosh completely outplaying their heavier opponents.

The Montana State freshmen came here with a good season behind them and the record of having the University yearlings in the last three games. After allowing the Bobkittens to score first on a safety Adams' men opened up and scored enough touchdowns to give them 22 points. The University team made 24 first downs to their opponent's one and gained 335 yards to the Bobkitten's 58. The Cub backfield, led by Burns, Dobbins, Bourdeau, Babcock and Boone, gained almost at will against their bewildered opponents. Murray, McCarthy, Breen and Snyder showed particularly well in the line.

Men who received numerals are: Avery, Babcock, Breen, Button, Burns, Bourdeau, Boone, Cook, Cox, Bailey, Davidson, Davis, Dobbins, Haney, Jaccard, Lagerquist, McCarthy, Metcalf, Murray, Oliver, Ruth, Sisty, Snyder, and Tobin. Murray, tackle, and Babcock, fullback, were co-captains of the squad.

The 1928 Season

J. W. Stewart, athletic director and basketball coach, at the beginning of the season was faced with the problem of developing a center and forward to take the places of the co-captains Overturf and Kain who had graduated from the 1928 squad. During the season two games were lost to the Montana State Bobcats, so-called wonder team and three times Rocky Mountain champions. Among the other state teams the Grizzlies won all four games with the School of Mines and Mount St. Charles while two were won and eight lost in the Pacific Coast conference. nishing the opposition. At Missoula the Bulldogs dropped two out of three against Montana, the first and last games going to Stewart's charges, 36-30 and 28-18, and the second resulting in a Gonzaga victory, 35-30.

The following Monday and Tuesday, Montana warmed up with two games with the School of Mines in preparation for the opening of the conference season. Both of these games were won, 33-22 and 30-22. Washington State came here with a team of veterans. Montana started out in an impressive manner and then the invading Cougars went wild, scoring from any place on the floor. The final result was 44-23.

tana State Bobcats furnishing the opposition. The Bobcats came from behind in the second half to overcome a ten point lead and run the final score to 54-38.

Idaho and Oregon State came here during the middle of January and each managed to eke out a narrow victory. Idaho trailed the Grizzlies during the first half by seven points but McMillan, leading conference scorer, scored 15 points alone in the last half to give his team a 33-31 victory. Oregon State nosed Montana out in the last minute of play after the two teams had taken turns in setting the pace. The final score was 29-25. Montana rallied for the Oregon game and playing at top speed from beginning to end led the Emeralds 29-28 at the final gun. The Monday preceding the coast trip Montana went to Bozeman to meet Montana State and was snowed under by the Bobcats 68-18. On the western trip the Grizzlies fell before Washington, 42-20, Oregon State, 28-26, and Oregon 45-21. Washington played the return game here Feb. 11 and despite Chinske's 14 points was returned victors 46-27. Mount St. Charles came here the following week and dropped two games 30-22 and 37-19. On the final trip of the year the Grizzlies dropped the first contest to Idaho 44-31 and then came back with a vengeance to trip both Washington State and Gonzaga on their own floors. At Gonzaga the Grizzlies piled up a lead in the first half that was never headed as a result of excellent shooting by Rohlfes, Rankin and Rule. The Final score stood at 40-35.

Super-Varsity Basketball

Couch Harry Adams of the freshman athletic teams inaugurated a new plan for the 1928 basketball season by eliminating the freshman team and coaching a squad composed of first year players and those who were cut from the Varsity at the beginning of the season. The purpose behind such a radical move was to develop players who would ultimately become Varsity material rather than to produce winning freshman teams.

Starting the season Adams sent out a call for all first year basketball players to report and he then proceeded to hold a series of squad games by which means he was able to cull out men of no possibilities. These men were then combined with Rathert, Lockwood, Buckley, Stillings and Carey from the Varsity squad and drilled as a team.

Nelson and Buckley were the outstanding centers of the squad, both being able scorers and good jumpers. Of an array of forwards Logan, King, Hanson, Rathert and Stillings were outstanding. King and Hanson, while small, are fast moving men and good feeders while Logan is of the smooth working, basket shooting type. Logan was perhaps the best shot on the squad. Rathert and Stillings are larger men who developed rapidly as the season wore on.

Murray, Boone, Carey and Lockwood carried the bulk of the guarding duties for Adams' men. Murray and Lockwood are giants in stature who only need to overcome inexperience to be of Varsity material. Boone and Carey are smaller and faster men who score often from the field.

At the end of the season freshman numerals were awarded Logan, Nelson, King, Murray, Hanson and Boone, the other men on the squad being sophomores or of higher standing.

Varsity Track

At the beginning of the 1929 season Coach J. W. Stewart found himself in possession of such veteran track and field athletes as Captain Tom Davis, Martin, Samples, Graham, Huber, Percy, Stevlingson, Haines, Curtiss, Garlington, Mario, James, Priest, Harmon and A. Burke, with Nelson, Bob Davis, Archie Grover, Billie Burke, Bud Grover, Muldick, Parmenter, Moore, Carey, Mowatt, Morrow, Lockwood, Walker and Schulz competing for the first time under Varsity colors. The team got off in a slow start because of cold weather and was somewhat hampered by injuries. During the State Intercollegiate meet here in May there were seven men injured who would, otherwise, have been certain point winners for Stewart. Regardless of these handicaps Stewart produced a squad that developed rapidly when good training conditions did arrive and which made a favorable showing in all its meets.

Stewart held the class meet early in the season and the affair resulted in a victory for the juniors with the seniors, sophomores and freshmen finishing in that order. Samples, with 13 points, led the juniors while Captain Davis was the big scorer for the seniors. Among the newcomers on the squad, Morrow and Nelson stood out. Morrow broad jumped over 22 feet, while Nelson barely missed clearing 6 feet 1 inch in the high jump. Scotty Martin, a veteran, led the way in both the half mile and mile runs.

A small squad was taken to Seattle for the Washington relays May 4. Although having had a limited training season the Grizzlies placed second in the medley and third in the 880 relays. Samples, star sprinter, was ill during the trip and was not able to display his best form.

collegiate meet here, May 12 and piled up 81 points to their nearest competitor's 46. Following the Bobcats, who placed second, were Mount St. Charles, Intermountain, Montana Normal and Montana Mines. Jimmy Morrow sailed 22 feet 4¼ inches to establish a new state broad jump record during the meet while State College men also established new records in the javelin and shot put. Claude Samples, a sprinter of whom much was expected, pulled a tendon in the 220-yard dash and was disabled for the year. Tom Davis led the way in both the 100- and 440-yard dashes while Scotty Martin looked good in the distance runs. This meet was held the Saturday following the State Inter-scholastic meet as a special feature of the week. All colleges of the state except one was represented in the meet and all placed with the exception of Eastern Montana Normal which had one man entered.

The Triangular meet scheduled with Washington State and Idaho at Pullman, Washington, was cancelled but a dual meet was held here with the latter team and a squad was sent to the conference meet at Eugene, Oregon, in June.

Coach Stewart also sends a delegation of the most likely men to the National Interscholastic meet at Chicago each year.

The Pacific Coast conference meet held in Missoula at the end of the 1928 season brought the greatest aggregation of athletes ever to appear in Montana. Every school in the conference except Stanford was represented and the entry list included such nationally known stars as Brix and Steve Anderson of Washington; Barnes, Borch, Williams, and Payne of U. S. C.; Sisson of Oregon State; Foster of Washington State, and Cleaver of Idaho as well as members of the Montana team who showed particularly well.

Otto Bessey stood out as the leading performer for Montana in the meet by overcoming great odds to cop the javelin throw with a toss of 183 feet, 9 inches. Bessey, a small man, made his great throw in his last appearance as a Grizzly athlete and, incidentally, established what was then a new state mark. The 1928 captain, Barks Adams, ran a beautiful race in the 880-yard run to win a second for his team while George Martin took fourth in the mile run. Other point winners for Stewart's squad were Frank Curtiss, who won third in the two-mile, Jake Miller with a three way tie for third in the pole vault, and Tom Davis who took fourth in the 220-yard dash. Davis also made a beautiful sprint in the last lap of the relay to win second for his team in this event.

Following the close of the regular 1928 season, Coach Stewart took Tom Davis to Chicago to compete in the National Interscholastic meet. While Davis did not place in the 440-yard dash he had the satisfaction of beating Sisson and Onillette, men who had starred in the conference meet. Davis barely missed qualifying for the finals.

Freshman Track

Thirty-five freshmen reported to Carl Tysel, fresh coach, at the beginning of the season and worked out regularly every day. Tysel, a three-letter track man under Coach Stewart, handled the squad and was aided from time to time by the Varsity coaches.

The only regular meet engaged in by the first year men was the inter-class meet the latter part of April. Although outscored by the other classes some of the individuals showed unusual ability and offered the Varsity opponents considerable opposition. Murray threatened the 40-foot mark in the shot put to take first in this event while Dick Nelson placed second in the pole vault. Noyes and Spaulding in the hurdles, Rossiter in the high jump and Ruth and Flint in the broad jump were other freshmen to score points.

Murray is a Missoula high school product who won first at the 1928 Inter-scholastic while Nelson, from Willow Creek, tied for the best mark in the pole vault at the same time. D. Davis of Rutte won the half mile at the state meet here in 1927 and placed third in the 440. Snyder, Goggins, Husser, and Loftsgaarden were other freshmen who showed promise even though they failed to place in the inter-class meet.

Each year a cup is awarded to the outstanding freshman track athlete by Athletic Director J. W. Stewart. The stipulations are that the man must be one who is of promising Varsity material and a preference is shown for one who is outstanding in not only one event but who can perform in more than a specialty. Sterlingson, a hurdler, received the award in 1927 while the cup was awarded to Bob Davis last year. Davis is a middle distance man.

Tennis Singles

Lewis

Johnny Lewis of Billings defeated Von Mackenstadt of Dixon to win the tennis singles championship of the University.

Lewis went into the finals by taking three sets from Victor Stepanitsoff, Harbin, China, 6-0, 6-0, 6-0. Mackenstadt advanced to the final round when he defeated Robert Mario 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3. In the championship series Lewis won in straight sets 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Intra-Mural Track

An extensive program of Intra-mural track sports were carried on last year under the supervision of Harry Adams and J. W. Stewart. The largest event of the year was the Inter-class meet which was won by the juniors by a margin of one point over the seniors. This meet was held with the view of determining unusual prospects of Varsity caliber. Companies of the ROTC held a meet later which was won by Company C. The Novice meet was open to those who had had no previous experience in track while all physical education classes were entered in a contest of their own.

Tennis Doubles

Billy Rohlfss of Salem, S. D., paired with Johnny Lewis of Billings, won the University Inter-church doubles championship held last spring. The title holders represented the Congregational church in the series.

In the deciding match of the tournament the Lewis Rohlfss team held the advantage from the initial set and conquered the Mario-Stepantsoff combination in straight sets 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

The winning team in the Inter-church tournament is given permanent possession of a loving cup offered by the University each season for this event.

Intercollegiate Baseball

Foresters romped on the Lawyers to take the title in the Intra-mural baseball league. Both teams had won their way to the finals by previously defeating representatives of the other schools entered in the tournament. This program of baseball has branched out until now each school on the campus is represented by a baseball team in the league and a regular schedule of games is played during the spring quarter. The winning team is awarded a pennant for its efforts.

Horseshoe Tournament

CHAMPION

A horseshoe pitching tournament has been included in the spring Intra-mural sports program of the University for several years and has been rather popular with the fans of this sport. Lewis Nugent of Helena won the tourney in the spring of 1928. There were 16 entries in the tournament last year, but the prospects are for more contestants this year with the competition being held the latter part of the spring quarter. The loss of one match eliminates any contenders.

South Hall Basketball

A new event was added to the Intra-mural program this year with the inauguration of the South Hall basketball tournament which was held late in the fall quarter. Six teams were made up from the students of the men's dormitory and a round-robin schedule was played. Stepantsoff's Manchurians won the tourney by defeating the other five teams without dropping a game. This team was composed of G. Nelson, Crane, Gilboe, Boone, S. Snyder, C. Snyder, Silfvast, and Preston. Victor Stepantsoff was the manager.

Open Golf Tournament

The 1928 Open Golf championship tournament was probably the most successful tournament of its kind in the history of the University. Fritz Sterling, Missoula, won the final round of the tourney from Eddie Chinske, Michigan City, Indiana. Sterling's winning margin was three up and one to play and he shot a 40 on the last nine holes.

In the semi-final Chinske easily eliminated Thomas Cameron, outclassing his opponent on the links. Sterling went into the final bracket after winning from Lewis Nugent in the semi-final match.

Inter-Class Basketball

The class of 1930 swept through the Inter-class games this year for three victories against no defeats to retain the title they won last year and finish a second season undefeated. The juniors had very nearly the same team that played together the last two seasons for the class of '30 and their teamwork was too much for the other classes.

The juniors and seniors were both undefeated until they met in the final contest which resulted in a 25-12 trouncing for the class of '29. The champions are Rankin, C. Rohlfis, Kilroy, Doherty, Stocking, Beckett, and R. Lewis.

Golf Handicap Tournament

In the Golf Handicap tournament, played on the Garden City community course, Lewis Fetterly, Eureka, won the windup match with a net score of 65 and a gross score of 19.

Carl Ross, Butte, was runner-up with a gross count of 87 and a net of 67 while third place went to Lewis Nugent who had a net score of 69 and a gross score of 83.

Inter-Company Basketball

The Inter-company basketball tournament was won this year by Company C. This is one of the Intra-mural events limited to the R. O. T. C. unit.

Each company plays the other two twice. A and C companies divided their two games, making a third necessary to decide the championship. Company C won the rubber game, 23-12. Both these teams won all their games from B company. The men who played on the C company team were Peterson, Rathert, Jacearl, Foster, Loftsgarden, Carey, and Lockwood.

Novice Golf Tournament

For the benefit of the beginning golfer, a Novice tournament was started last spring. All golf enthusiasts, not having more than one year experience, were eligible to compete in this tournament.

The laurels of the Novice tourney went to Carl Ross after defeating Lewis Fetterly in the final frame. The winning count for the 18 holes was 83.

Inter-Church Basketball

The Baptists won the championship in the Inter-church basketball tournament by finishing the schedule undefeated. Only five teams took part this year but all the games were hard fought and well played.

This game virtually decided the championship. A crew of veterans made up the champion quint and only the Congregationals, another veteran outfit, were able to give them a hard game. Players who made up the champion team were Buckley, LeRoux, Currie, Carey, Beckett, Haines, and James.

Stewart Trophy

DAVIS

Bob Davis of Butte won the Stewart cup in 1928 as a result of making outstanding marks in the 100, 220, 440, and 880 yard events. The cup is awarded each year by Coach Stewart to the freshman making the most outstanding marks in track and field events. The times made by Davis last year were: 100 yard dash, 10.1; 220 yard dash, 22.9; 440 yard dash, 50.9; and the 880 yard run, 2:16. Davis is a member of the Varsity track squad this spring.

Inter-College Basketball

The Law School won the 1929 Inter-college basketball title by defeating the School of Business Administration in the playoff after the two teams were tied for first place at the end of the regular schedule.

During the season, the Business quint took the measure of the Lawyers and in turn dropped their last game to the Pharmacy School, so by winning their other games the two leaders each finished with four victories and one defeat making a playoff necessary. The men who made the Barristers' victory possible were Stocking, Morrow, Miller, Priest, Rognlien, Beck, Garlington, Stewart, and Martin.

George Snyder made 51 feet 2½ inches in the distance plunge, breaking the record of 43 feet six inches set by Jim Bruphy in 1928. "M" Club Tournament

McNALLY

Featuring one of the fastest and cleverest bouts even presented at the annual "M" club tournament, Jimmy McNally, Butte, stopped Bud Grover, Missoula, in the third round of the main event of the evening to win the welterweight championship of the University and the silver loving cup for the best exhibition in series of bouts.

Dean Jones received the judge's decision over Freddy Veeder for the junior lightweight title. Frank Curtis displayed a speedy attack to retain the light weight title in his scrap with George Larson.

George Haney was forced to go four rounds before receiving a decision over Curtis Barnes for the championship of the middleweight division. Bob Davis used a slashing attack to win a judge's decision over John McKay for the light heavyweight title of the University. In the heavyweight division Clarence Muhlick won a decision over Henry Murray. Pat Callahan won the heavyweight wrestling title from Raymond Veseth. George Husser and Cecil Dunn wrestled six minutes to a draw for the lightweight wrestling medal.

Victor Hay was awarded a decision over Walter Donaldson in the welter weight class. Joseph Baty secured a fall from Marks to win the middleweight wrestling championship. Free Throw Contest

Everett Logan, a freshman from St. Regis, won the 1929 free throw contest. Logan was tied with Emmett Buckley and Gale Nelson at the end of the championship round with a total of 74 points. In the playoff, Logan won the title with 20 points and Buckley took runners-up honors with 18. More than one hundred entered the contest this year which is open to all but Varsity letter winners in basketball and members of the Varsity squad. Logan was a member of the super-Varsity squad.

Riflery

The Athletic Board voted to make riflery a minor sport this year and award minor letters which caused quite an interest to be taken in this activity. The sport has not been limited to the ROTC unit although most of the activity has been taking place there. The Forestry School had a team that competed in the City League rifle matches although they did not finish as well as the two ROTC teams competing in the same league.

Montana did not do as well in the Ninth Corps Area match this year when the ROTC team finished twelfth, as in 1928 when the team from the Grizzly battalion took fifth. A team of fifteen men fired in this match but only the ten high scorers for each of the three stages were counted. It was decided that letters should be awarded to the ten men making the highest aggregate scores in the Corps Area match. The men who earned letters were Frank B. Alling, Tom A. Wheatley, Victor W. Hay, John C. McKay, Leonard J. Ashbaugh, Lowell R. Dailey, Gayle B. Nelson, Fred H. Noyd, Malcolm J. Shearer, Peter G. Meley. Alling, Hay, Wheatley, McKay, and Ashbaugh represented the Grizzly battalion in the Hearst Trophy match. More than 200 students took part in riflery this year with about 90 competing for places on the ROTC teams.

Frank Alling won the biggest share of honors in riflery this year and was the outstanding marksman. With a score of 552, he won the M. M. trophy, which is awarded by C. H. McLeod to the man making the highest score in the Corps area match. Alling won the other of the two large awards by copping the Bradley trophy which is awarded to the man scoring the highest aggregate total of all matches. In addition to this, Alling also won one of the gold medals awarded for high scores in each of the four positions in Corps Area match when he made 97 from the sitting position.

Winners of the other medals were: Prone, Dailey, 98; Kneeling, Hay, 84; Standing, Wheatley, 76. Wheatley and Alling tied for honors in the standing position with 79. Both made 76 in the playoff but Wheatley was awarded the medal on a comparison of the targets.

The Women's Athletic Association is the governing unit of all athletic activities and sports among the women on the campus. This organization was officially established at the University of Montana in the fall of 1922 and since that time the growth of the organization has been rapid, having as its aims the interest of college women in activities; the development of a higher degree of sportsmanship and the promotion of school and class spirit in athletic activities.

The major sports of swimming, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, field hockey, riflery and hiking are sponsored by the organization under appointed managers selected by the executive council. During this year WAA has taken an active part in promoting interest in sports among high school girls by establishing Play Day during the annual Interscholastic meet.

Miss Mary Laux

Miss Mary Laux, associate professor of Physical Education, has taken such an active interest in the work of the department that its success has been due to her untiring efforts. Miss Laux received her B. A. degree from the University of Montana in 1921 and her M. A. from Columbia University in 1925, and since that time has been head of the women's physical education department at this University. Although Miss Laux's work is mostly with major students and major courses she has taken an interest in athletic competition and this year introduced courses in corrective gymnastics.

Baseball 1928

Baseball has become a more prominent major sport each year. With the growing interest and enthusiasm that is being shown it will soon be the major sport of the spring quarter.

A class tournament is held each year and was won by the combined Junior-Senior class in 1928. At the close of the season the following girls were chosen on the all-star team: H. McDonnell, T. Reed, G. Schauer, M. Campbell, C. Shaw, J. Johnston, E. Kuhl, M. Richardson, and F. Van Duzer.

Mrs. Harriet G. Wood

Wood

Mrs. Harriet Graham Wood is an instructor in the Physical Education department and adviser of the Women's Athletic Association. Mrs. Wood graduated from the University of Wisconsin and has been connected with the Physical Education department of this University for the past two years. Since coming to the campus she has introduced two new major sports, soccer and field hockey; has taken charge of all WAA activities, and the enthusiasm of the members and the growth of this organization in the past two years is due to her interest in athletic competition for women.

Track 1928

The second annual Track and Field Day for all women on the campus was held this year with greater interest and keener competition than ever before. Freshman and sophomore women entered the meet to represent their class after a gradual elimination contest during the season, while upperclass women defended their titles.

The meet in 1928 was won by the sophomore class. Track events included hurdles, races and relay races, while field events were broad and high jumping, discus and javelin throwing. The all-star team was chosen at the end of the season.

Tennis 1928

Since tennis was added as a major sport of the Women's Athletic Association and to the curriculum of the Physical Education department over a year ago, interest in this game has increased more than in any other sport. Under the management of Dorothy Kiely, a class tournament was held and the winners of these tournaments played off a final tournament to decide the school championship. This tourney was won by Frances H. McGrath, junior, with Marguerite Rouss, freshman, as runnerup; both girls were placed on the all star team.

McGrath

Field Hockey

With the final completion of the Women's Athletic Field and with a splendid green sod field, Mrs. Wood introduced field hockey as a major sport for the first time this year. Field hockey will be considered the major sport of the fall quarter and will take the place of soccer as it is a faster, more skillful and universal game. After a class tournament had been held and won by the combined Junior-Senior class team, the following girls were chosen on the first all-star team: R. Lieb, G. Schauer, T. Reed, F. Van Duzer, B. Billing, M. Richardson, R. Seawald, C. Shaw, E. Roth, J. Patton, M. Miller, G. Valeria, E. Kuhl, A. Ellison, and D. Luxton.

ALTHMAN

Vivian Althman, a freshman from Glasgow, was awarded the McLeod cup as the best marksman for this year. Miss Althman's score was 193 and is indicative of her steadiness, keen eyesight, and marksmanship. The McLeod trophy is awarded annually to the girl showing the best marksmanship and shooting score as the result of an elimination contest. This trophy is presented to the Physical Education department by C. H. McLeod of Missoula.

Interest and enthusiasm in riflery as a major sport increases each year. It is necessary to hold elimination contests for weeks to decide which girls are to be placed on the all-star team of the school.

The five girls showing the best scores at the final shooting are awarded points in WAA. It is only through the efforts of the members of the ROTC staff, and especially Captain Caulkins, cooperating with the Physical Education department that this sport is possible. Officers of the ROTC teach and train the girls in shooting and the use of rifles.

BASKETBALL

During the winter quarter all members of WAA turn their thoughts to the main sport of the season, basketball. The annual inter-class tournament was won by the freshmen this year, but only after a hard fought game with the junior class.

Members of Mortar Board are chosen from the Junior Class, on a basis of scholarship, service, and leadership, each spring and are formally tapped at the first SOS of the spring quarter. Membership in this organization is considered one of the highest attainments that a woman student can secure during her college career.

This year a new system was adopted in making the choice of the twelve Junior girls tapped for Mortar Board. The names of thirty-five girls were submitted to a committee, consisting of eight members of the faculty, and this committee voted on the basis of scholarship, activities and personality of the various girls.

At the meeting of the Junior women, the same list was given each girl, on which she voted, considering the same merits of each candidate.

Our chapter of Delta Psi Kappa, since its organization on the campus in 1920 by a group of physical education majors, has done much to promote interest in physical education among the college women.

This year, with WAA, it sponsored "Posture Week" on the campus; posture exercises and lectures were given in all the gymnasium classes, and a prize of five dollars was awarded to the best poster featuring the plans of the week. The prize was won by Theodora Reed, a major in the Art department.

During the spring quarter, Delta Psi Kappa plans on promoting a "Swimming Pageant."

Delta Sigma Rho is the oldest honorary forensic society in the United States, and exercises great influence upon intercollegiate oratory and debate through the regulation of subjects, standards and rewards of merit.

Montana chapter of Delta Sigma Rho was granted a charter during the spring quarter. Delta Sigma Rho was organized in 1904 by representatives of the faculties of the University of Michigan, the University of Minnesota, and the University of Iowa who met in Chicago for that purpose. The purpose of the fraternity is to encourage a higher standard of public speaking and debate among college students. In order to become a member of Delta Sigma Rho a student must have participated in at least two intercollegiate debates and must be representative of the highest type of public speaking at the institution.

Corbin Hall, named in honor of Miss Frances Corbin of the English department, is the newest dormitory on the campus. The hall accommodates eighty-three girls. During the past year, fifty freshman women and thirty-three upperclasswomen lived there. The girls are very congenial and the dormitory is noted for its home-like atmosphere.

Early fall quarter, the Corbin Hall Club is formed and officers are elected for the ensuing year. The first social event of the year is an exchange of guests with South Hall, the men's dormitory. During the school year, quarterly formal dances are held and one or two firesides. There are two formal birthday parties and a Christmas Tree party which are for the girls alone.

Corbin Hall is proud of its large number of honor students among both the freshmen and upperclasswomen.

Students and faculty of the School of Forestry unite to make the Forestry Club one of Montana's outstanding organizations.

The Forestry Club was organized in 1913 to create a spirit of fellowship and mutual interest in the school and in the University. Meetings at which men active in the world of Forestry speak to the members are held fortnightly.

The club is prominent in the social and scholastic life of the University and its members are active in Varsity and inter-mural athletics as well.

The annual Forestry Ball has come to be the leading event of the Winter social season. Informal dances and hikes complete the social calendar.

Newman Club is a national organization for Catholic students. The local chapter was granted in October, 1915, to a group known as the Catholic Students association.

Having as its purpose the promoting of fellowship among students of the Catholic faith, the Newman Club now has about one hundred and fifty members. This year for the first time members of the faculty have been taken into active membership in the organization.

Meetings of the club are held the first Sunday of each month in the parish hall of St. Anthony's church. Following the meeting a breakfast is served. What is known as the executive council, composed of officers of the club and a representative from each class, holds meetings alternately to the regular meetings. Programs at which talks and other entertainment are provided, are held once a month.

All residents of North Hall are members of the North Hall Club. This club was organized for the purpose of furthering the social life of both freshman and upperclass women in the hall. The fall and winter formals, the spring informal, the Christmas party, the firesides, and the birthday parties given by this club are among the most delightful social events of the year.

The officers of the club are elected in the fall and they work under the supervision of Mrs. Theodore Brantly and the dormitory leaders. Mrs. Brantly is social director and her leaders are upperclass women who have had previous experience in dormitory life.

North Hall was built seven years ago and at that time accommodated only ninety-eight women, but with the increasing freshman enrollment it has been made to accommodate one hundred and fourteen. Its occupants are subject to the regulations of A. W. S. and are under the direct supervision of Harriet Rankin Sedman, dean of women.

SAM GILLILLY	Secretary-Treasurer

Shortly after the founding of the school of Journalism in 1914 the Press Club was organized with 15 students then in attendance in the school as members. The growth of the club has kept apace with the school and is now one of the largest clubs on the campus.

Twice each month the club meets in the "Shack" and a general get-together is held. Though the activities of the club, journalism majors become quickly acquainted, and work as a unit throughout the year.

Journalism and its various fields is discussed at the sessions, prominent newspaper men, and faculty members on the campus being invited to lead in the discussion.

South Hall Club is organized every fall for the purpose of providing an organization that shall guide and control student life at the hall. The club now offers a means of social entertainment and intellectual advancement as a group. South Hall is the men's dormitory on the campus. It was completed in 1923 and at this time the Freshmen dormitory plan was adopted. The club serves as a means of adjusting the new students to the conditions which they will meet upon entering college.

During the fall quarter the club gave a banquet in honor of the football men who live there and later they gave a formal dance. A "Whoopie" dance given in the winter quarter, and a "Sport Dance" in the spring quarter, were both informal affairs. A number of firesides were held throughout the year by various groups in the hall.

The basketball tournament that was played off by the South Hall men, gave many of them an opportunity to participate in the Intra-mural sports.

The Wesley Club is an organization of Methodist University students. It presents an interesting program of Christian fellowship and recreation. The club holds a Bible study class each Sunday morning and sponsors a University Night at the church each month. This is augmented by a social program including a venison dinner, a New Year's party, and a Senior party.

The study class under the leadership of Mrs. Jesse Bunch was very interesting and well attended. Dr. Charles Donaldson secured special speakers for the University Night program, and musical numbers were presented by members of the class under the direction of Marion Butchart. These services were followed by an informal hour at the parsonage. The social chairman, Walter Taylor, arranged a particularly interesting program, aided by the patronesses Mrs. C. A. Colby, Mrs. Charles Donaldson, Mrs. I. B. Fee, Mrs. Thomas Layfield, and Mrs. E. R. Sanford.

Under the direction of Douglass Thomas, the Montana Kaimin has developed a thoroughly efficient business department with a definite organization.

The installation of modern steel filing cases and other up-to-date equipment will aid materially in the functioning of the business organization and in maintaining its systematic operation that the present manager has instituted.

Closer contact between the advertisers and the Kaimin and the student body, has been established this year through the efforts of the advertising staff.

The Montana Kaimin is a semi-weekly newspaper, the official news organ of the student body. It was established on the campus in 1908 as a monthly magazine and has developed into one of the best college newspapers in the country.

Under the editorship of Frank Brutto, the Kaimin has shown a marked improvement in its editorial policy, and unbiased handling of campus news.

Sensing the need of a medium of expression for campus creative work, the Kaimin this year issued a supplement for the first time as an attempt to partially fill this need. The supplement has been well received by both faculty and student body.

Students of the School of Forestry edit the Forestry Kaimin each year. The book is distributed to every forest service station in the United States, to all logging camps in the northwest, and to all forestry majors and other interested students. This year 4300 copies were printed, an increase of 300 over last year.

The 1929 edition of the Forestry Kaimin is dedicated to the late Dr. J. E. Kirkwood, botanist and first dean of the School of Forestry.

Articles from the industry, the United States Forest Service, and graduates of the Montana School of Forestry have been contributed for the book. These articles cover subjects ranging from the preservation of wild game, timber measurement, reforestation, and milling to grazing problems. Poems and special articles written by undergraduates in the School of Forestry are also included.

Pioneering in the field of Northwest literature, the Frontier first appeared as a campus publication in the fall of 1919. Last year the Frontier ceased being a University publication and it is now open for contribution from all writers of the Northwest. Among the nationally famed contributors are Lew Sarett, Frank Linderman, and James Stevens, each of whom have several published books to their credit.

The Frontier has grown to the point that there are now subscribers in thirty-seven states and seven foreign countries, including Mexico, Canada, Alaska, Switzerland, Czecho-Slovakia, and the British Isles, receiving copies every quarter.

The Frontier has received favorable comments in the columns of national publications including "The Saturday Review of Literature", "The New York Evening Post", "The Literary Digest" and also "The London Mercury", a British publication.

The Montana Alumnus is the only official medium for maintaining contact with the alumni of the State University. Class notes giving news of members of graduating classes that left the University as far back as twenty years ago were included in the recent issues of the Alumnus.

The Alumnus is published in the form of a booklet quarterly issued in October, December, March, and June. The October issue contained Homecoming news, reports on the growth of the University, alumni visitors, Homecoming addresses, the fiscal report of the Alumni Association.

Contributions from alumni are always welcome in the Alumnus. Letters from graduates in many parts of the world were received during the past year. Excerpts from these have appeared in recent publications quite frequently.

In order to provide a medium for the discussion and criticism of campus problems the Wrangler board was organized last September. The first issue of the Wrangler appeared in October. A three-columns four-page leaflet devoted exclusively to contributions from students and members of the faculty.

The Wrangler has been issued each month during the school year. The cost of the publication is defrayed entirely by subscriptions and donations from interested individuals. The entire paper is devoted to discussion and no space is provided for advertising.

Several linoleum cuts by members of the University Art Department have appeared in the Wrangler.

Among the questions discussed in the Wrangler which attracted considerable attention are "Honorary Fraternities", "The Grade Curve", "The Cut System", "Non-fraternity Representation" and "Campus Police".

THE STAGE

Debate

Hugh Lindsey
Debate Coach

This year under the supervision of Hugh Lindsey a keen interest was manifested in debate. Thirty-five men and women answered the call for debate material last fall. The men's varsity team composed of Ray Bowden, Russell Smith, and James Beck met three debaters from the University of Sydney, Australia, in the Missoula high school auditorium in January. The Montana men upheld the affirmative of the question, resolved; that this house is opposed to nationalism.

Robert Williams and Russell Smith made the California trip during which they won two, lost two and participated in two no-decision debates.

Smith, Fitzgerald, and Williams were selected to represent the University in an interesting form of debate which was recently inaugurated. These men met three representatives of State College at Bozeman

May 17. The general subject of American foreign policy was announced one month prior to the meeting. Specific subjects were announced two hours before the contest and the contestants were permitted a free choice of sides.

A number of debates were held throughout the season commencing with a debate with the University of Idaho here on December 6, and a return engagement with that University there on December 10. Young and Wold, Garlington and Smith debated for Montana at these engagements.

On the California debate tour Russell Smith and Robert Williams debated at Reed College, Oregon University, Albany College, Oregon State College, Stanford University and College of Pacific at Stockton. On April 1 Mary Brennan and Rhea Traver of the women's debate squad upheld the affirmative of the question: Resolved, that the 19th amendment has improved national politics, with the University of Arizona. On April 4 Negherbon and Johnson met Lawrence College at the Hamilton high school, upholding the negative of the question, Resolved, that insanity as a defense in criminal trials should be abolished.

Considerable interest was manifested on the part of the freshmen in debate this year and several debates were held both on the campus and out of town.

The Little Theatre

William Angus
Director of Dramatics

"Revizor", a five-act farce by Niccolay Gogol, was presented as the major production of the spring quarter in 1928. The dates were May 23, 24, 26. Although this Russian play was written in 1836, it is modern in its situations and character delineation. In it, each of the twenty characters make important contributions. In order to bind the play together it was decided to give the smaller parts to experienced actors, thereby striking a balance of "wholeness."

The play is founded on the story of the Revizor, a government inspector, who is sent out from St. Petersburg by the Czar to make a survey of the small town governments. The officials of the town in which the action is laid make a mistake in identity with the result that a traveling ne'er-do-well is entertained and feted by the eager citizens.

Special sets for the play were designed and built under the direction of William Angus, director of dramatics. Paul Kemelick, Harry Hooser, and Mary Brennan were cast in principal parts. Many of the minor parts were taken by actors who had played leads in former Masquer productions.

Revizor

Shall We Join the Ladies

"Shall We Join the Ladies" by Sir J. M. Barrie, a three-act play, of which the last two acts were never written, proved an adventure in play-going for those who saw the Masquers present the first act November 14, 15, 17. This was part of the fall quarter major bill for the Little Theatre.

Take thirteen people at a dinner table; the host, played by William Schleder, and twelve others, men and women; looking like ladies and gentlemen, but each a criminal in his or her own right. Take a frozen-faced butler who knows something he won't tell, played by Albert Erickson. Take a general accusation of murder that is known to apply to one of the people present, the exact person unknown. Take incriminating statements made by each one of the guests. Build this up to a dreadful climax. Add a scream of terror. Pull the curtain and say, "That's all there is to it," and you have the play and the adventure.

Schleder as host played the most important part, and played it very well. He was bland, merciless, and although he plotted to expose one of these guests as a murderer, he was extremely, if uncomprisingly, polite. Gretchen Gayhart, as the ruthless Mrs. Preen, was good in her part. Philip Duncan as one of the blackened gentlemen supplied excellent humor. One felt that he was likeable, even if he should happen to be the murderer. Claire Frances Linforth, as Miss Isit, showed a guilty conscience in a sullen, nervous way. The guilt was obviously and impartially fastened to each guest in turn in such a manner that the audience was given much to think and wonder about, and little chance to know if they were right.

"Shall We Join the Ladies"

Wife to a Famous Man

"Wife to a Famous Man," two-act play by G. Martinez Sierra, was given on the same nights as "Shall We Join the Ladies?" It was part of the bill of the major production by the Masquers for the fall quarter. This very modern play, by a widely known playwright, was well given by the cast and pleased audiences each of its three nights.

The story is of Senor Ramon, played by Radcliffe Maxey, and his wife Marianna, played by Dorothy Jordan. They and their in-laws form the Spanish family that lives in Marianna's laundry. The Senor, much given to self-esteem, becomes a hero by a great non-stop flight. Although he is teased, and admits that he is a great man, his wife continues to run the laundry so that she and her people, and her husband's people may continue to eat while the Senor is being banqueted. Enter the conniving actress Julieta, played by Claire Frances Linforth. She convinces the worthless husband away for a while; but he comes back. His wife welcomes him, she is that way, and he submits to being embraced. No one knows what happens after that because the curtain goes down on the last act, but apparently they live happily.

Dorothy Jordan was especially pleasing as the wife indicated in the title. To her goes great appreciation for the way she handled the part. J. Clark Kellett made a wonderfully lazy father-in-law. Miss Linforth, as the actress, made the heartless desertion on the part of the famous man seem not so uninteresting. Curtis Barnes as an American news reporter supplied redeeming comedy with his persuasive and invasive snooping for local color for his story.

"Wife to a Famous Man"

"Twelve Thousand"

"Twelve Thousand" by Bruno Frank, translated from the German by William A. Drake, was given as the winter quarter major production by the Masquers, February 21, 22, 23. This was an outstanding selection and was perhaps the most difficult thing the organization has attempted.

The play had to do with a petty German Prince, at the time of the American Revolution, who sought to sell twelve thousand of his subjects to the English government for use as mercenaries in the American campaign. Piderit, confidential secretary to the Prince, played well by Charles Ahlerson, saved his brothers and the twelve thousand other peasants by a counter-plot. The Baroness of Spangenburg, played the first night by Gretchen Gayhart and the second by Claire Frances Linforth, was mistress of the Prince, and the money from these troops was to be used for her personal glorification. Although she also was sprung from the peasantry, and it was by the use of her seal ring that Piderit got his plotting message through patrolled borders, she did not know of what aid she had been in saving her people. When she did learn, however, she was happy; Piderit was happy; the peasants were happy; in fact everyone was happy except the Prince and his Minister.

William Angus, director, arranged for two actors cast in each of two other roles. These were Jamesbert Garlington and Harold Fitzgerald as Treysa, Minister to the Prince; and William Brown and George Boyington, as Faucitt, envoy from England. These actors each appeared one night, choice was made from audience opinion, and Garlington, Brown, and Linforth played on the final night.

Paul Treichler gave a good performance in the suave part of the Prince, Jasper DeDeubeleer took the part of a Russian Colonel. Curtis Barnes and Albert Erickson were Martin and Kiri, brothers of Piderit.

Hi-Jinx and

A scene from Hi-Jinx

Hi-Jinx, annual razz fest which was staged this year by the women of the University under the managership of Helen Maddock, was well received by a capacity audience which filled the theatre for both performances.

A cast of 200 co-eds and a production staff of 50 worked hard for a number of weeks to make the annual event a success and the production which consisted of three acts, seventeen scenes, and a prologue was considered by many to be one of the best Hi-Jinx performances presented to the University students.

Varsity Vodvil, a show given annually by the students of the University and under the auspices of ASUM, was held at the Wilma Theatre, March 2. The acts chosen in the tryouts included: A non-sorority act, "Cro-Magnon

Current Sea Fish"

Varsity Vodvil

"Cro-Magnon Capers"

"Capers", managed by Billie Burke Kilroy; "Jazzy Justice", Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Ted DeFord; "The Temple of Buddha", Sigma Kappa, Frances Elge; "An Alabama Jubilee", Delta Sigma Lambda, Tom Wheatley; "Indian Romance", Alpha Chi Omega, Vivian Lewis; "Current Sea Fish", Phi Delta Theta, Allan Burke; "The Land of the Rainbow", Kappa Alpha Theta, Louise Lubrecht.

The non-sorority act featuring "Cro-Magnon Capers" and the Alpha Chi Omega act, "Indian Romance", tied for first place in the women's division and the Phi Delta Theta act "Current Sea Fish" was awarded first place in the men's division.

Doug Burns was in charge of this year's presentation of Varsity Vodvil.

Track Meet

Interscholastic Track and Field Champions

Charles Prolsnick, second place in mile; second place in 880.

Couch Harry Dahlberg.

Frank Bell, fourth place in discus throw.

Harry Evans (captain), winner of 440; third place in 880.

Robert White, third place in 440.

Butte high school's athletes, with a punch in the pinch and with a remarkable show of endurance flashed ahead in the final day of the Quarter-Centennial Interscholastic track and field meet to carry off first honors with a total of 21 points. Missoula County High finished second place, a scant two points behind the champions.

Butte Hig's victory was a repetition of the 1927 meet when the Mining City men took the meet with 21 points, two points more than Missoula, their closest opponent. The 1928 meet marked the ninth win for Butte since the establishment of Interscholastic week in 1904.

Butte owes its triumph to four men and to Coach Harry Dahlberg, known for his ability to develop winning athletic teams. Captain Harry Evans and Charles Prolsnick each took eight points, Robert White scored three points and Frank Bell two.

The meet was a close duel between Butte and Missoula for first honors, but the points were divided in an unusual fashion. Fergus, Havre, Plains, Polson and Superior came unheralded, to figure high in the scoring.

The meet, the fastest in Montana Interscholastic history, saw the breaking of four state records. Fred Bennion of Gallatin lowered the time in both the hurdle events, running the 120-yard high hurdles in 16.4 seconds and the 220-yard low hurdles in 26.4 seconds. The time in these events will not stand as a record because of a favoring wind. Watson, Helena High, turned in a record breaking mile in the remarkable time of 4 minutes, 37.8 seconds. Retz, Polson, leaped 21 feet, 8 inches to establish a new record for the broad jump.

Herman Eckly of Pergus took 11 points in the dashes to take high point honors and single handed put his school in third place. He finished first in the 50 and 220-yard dashes and was second in the 100-yard dash. Bennion, Gallatin, and Watson, Helena, tied for second honors with 10 points each.

John Regan of Butte took championship honors in the first interscholastic golf tournament when he turned in a score of 184 for 38 holes, four points lower than the total garnered by David Fitzgerald of Livingston, who finished in second place. Fitzgerald was 1927 state junior golf champion.

Regan's game was featured by the best drives of any of the contestants. He sent the globe on 250 yard rides repeatedly. Had his putting been on a par with his longer shots he would have broken 180. Ted Thornton of Missoula turned in an excellent card to take third place.

Regan

Great Falls with a total of 29½ points won the 1929 interscholastic track and field meet held on Dornblaser field May 9 and 10. By winning the half-mile relay race, the five-year relay cup also went to the Great Falls school. Butte public high school came in for second place with 21 points while Butte Central and Stevensville high schools tied for third place in the meet with 16½ points each. Beaverhead received fourth with 15 points.

G. Robinson of Manhattan came through as individual high point man in the meet with 13 points to his credit. K. Duff of Butte Central and H. Moe of Great Falls were runners-up for this honor with 11½ and 10½ points respectively.

Rudy Merhar of Butte high won Montana's interscholastic golf title in the 1929 meet and Bernard Bretherton won the tennis championship.

Anaconda High School took first place in the Second Annual Little Theatre Tournament through their presentation of "The Wonder Hat" by Ben Hecht and Kenneth Sawyer Goodman. Not only did the students representing Anaconda High School take first prize in the tournament, but two members of the cast received the award for the best actor and actress. Jack Alexander as Punchinello, and Pearl Refnes as Margot, won the awards. Miss Eura M. Kester directed the presentation.

Butte High School won second prize with their presentation of "The Sweetmeat Game", by Ruth Comfort Mitchell; Whitehall High School, third place with Milne's "Wynzel-Flummery", and Ronan fourth place with Goodman's "The Game of Chess."

Newspaper Contest

"The Konah", the publication of the Missoula County High School, and "The Kyote" of Billings High School tied for first honors in the state high school newspaper contest conducted annually in connection with the Inter-scholastic week. Both schools were awarded cups by the Montana Press Association as winners of the Class A division of the high school papers.

Billings has maintained its winning position consistently for many years and "The Kyote" has come to be recognized as one of Montana's leading high school newspapers. "The Konah" has won many places in the years which it has competed in the state contest, but this is the first time it has placed first.

"The Stampede" of Havre won the cup offered by the Montana Press Association for the best paper entered in Class B.

"The Searchlight" of Harlowton was awarded the cup offered by Sigma Delta Chi, men's international professional journalism fraternity, to the best paper entered in Class C, a division that was created for last year's contest.

"The Alberton School Post" won first place in Class D, receiving the cup for that division offered by Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalism fraternity.

The awards last year were based on the enrollment of high schools in which papers were published. Schools printing papers which are placed in Class A have an enrollment of 500 or more; in Class B, 300 to 499; Class C, 100 to 299; and Class D, less than 100.

Members of the association decided to change the basis of classification for awards in this year's newspaper contest. Class A will consist of six or seven column publications; Class B of five column; Class C of three or four column, and Class D of mimeographed and town paper inserts.

The meetings consisted of discussions between delegates and members of the faculty of the School of Journalism. The editor of "The Kyote," the Billings high school paper, was elected president of the Inter-scholastic Editorial association. The editor of "The Moccasin" of the Moccasin high school, was elected vice-president. The office of secretary-treasurer reverts automatically to the editor of "The Konah" of Missoula.

The Fredell Cup

Billings took their second win of the Editorial contest when the "Kyote", year book of the Billings High School, won the Fredell Cup for the best high school annual in the state.

The cup for the winning year book was donated by Fred Fredell of the Buckbee Mears Engraving company of St. Paul. The annual contest was judged by the Art Craft Guild of Chicago which has passed on college and high school annuals for a number of years.

Those entered in the annual contest were: Billings, Butte, Butte Central, Savage, Buffalo, Shelby, Fergus County, Glendive, Great Falls, Hardin, Havre, Helena, Flathead, Whitehall, Big Sandy, Sidney, and Klein.

Winning from three high schools who had survived the district eliminations, Billings High School debate team comprised of Arthur Cline and Sterling Stapp, speaking on the question: "Resolved: That all interscholastic athletic championships should be abolished", took first place in the finals of the State Debate League. Billings thereby retained the possession of the Debate trophy for one year.

Richey, Billings, Harlem and Whitehall high schools were represented in the finals.

Huntley

DeFrate

Arthur Cline, one of the members of the Billings team, won the Dixon medal, offered by Joseph M. Dixon, for the best individual debater. Robert Huntley of the Whitehall team was chosen as the second best debater.

Five first places were awarded to winners of the final interscholastic declamation and reading contests. Deanne Morgan, Annemula, with her serious declamation, "Flaming Ramparts"; Freda Krile, Rapelje, with a humorous selection, "The Back Seat Driver"; Elizabeth DeFrate, Gallatin county, with the extemporaneous reading, "Myself and I"; Edward Dussault, Layola (Missoula), with his serious declamation, "Tell-Tale Heart," and Chester Huntley, with his humorous declamation, "In the Tolls of the Enemy."

Interscholastic Committee

The Student Interscholastic Committee plans and supervises student participation and cooperation in connection with Interscholastic week.

The group composed of several sub-committees works under the direction of a general chairman. Each committee head has as an assistant a junior or a sophomore who becomes head of his group in his senior year.

The committee organizes and unifies all functions undertaken by campus organizations and provides the incentive for fraternity and sorority house decoration. Transportation is provided for visitors through cooperation with the Bear Paws and Tanans, the Chief Grizzly and the President of the Tanans being members of this committee.

Campus decorations are also cared for by the committee. The arch at the entrance of the campus is erected each year, lighted fountains are played on the oval, flags and bunting are flown from building and bleachers, lamp posts are decorated, and the University grounds are dressed up generally.

All visitors are met at the station and conducted to their lodgings by members of the Bear Paws and Tanans. It is a rule of the committee that no guest is left until it is certain that he is in his proper lodgings and comfortable.

Publicity for the meet is handled through the student committee also.

BOOK VII

WHOOPEE

For Such Is the Glory of Musical Mirth

This department, the most important one in the book, aims to instruct, edify, alarm, humble, and institute horribly revolutionary ideas in the minds of students who think they are good.

This is a branch of that great educational institution, the Greater University of Montana. It replaces the slide-rule with a piece of lead pipe, the pencil sharpener with a rack and wheel, and the text book with the Chicago machine gun. Its aims are horrible, melancholy, and sadistic; therein lies its humor.

A black and white photograph of a man in a military uniform, likely a pilot, sitting at a desk. He is wearing a cap and a jacket. To his left is a sign that reads "CAMP" and "CAMP".

Many more nebulous shapes it took. The little group stood with bowed heads. A blue cloud from the east resembled a class in Physical Education. Showing more enthusiasm than such a class has ever been able to muster, it cast forth a bolt of lightning at the assembly. "No."

The magnificent sunset, with its glory of fading forms, dimmed into a dismal grey as the Physical Educators trembled.

"But first comes the night," said a sprite from the business office, as he showered the group with yellow slips and ineligibility rules.

Of Spontaneity in Students

The Casual Visitor heard a roar. It seemed to come from the Forestry building. Looking closer; in fact examining meticulously, he found what appeared to be a woodshed back of that Lumberer's mansion. The roar came from there. The Casual Visitor wedged himself in the door. He listened.

A rattle of typewriters dabbled with his nerves. A scream of "Copy boy!" floated down the stairs, followed by a murmur, "Charge to the Kaimin." A man in an overcoat, with his collar up and his hat on flounced out a door, followed by cries of "Go to the Morgue (and other places too numerous to mention). A Sob-Sister swept by him, sobbing professionally. "Boom!" A glare of light blinded him. A camera clicked. "What have you to say for publication," shouted a reporter. "Nothing," murmured the Visitor.

"VISITOR SCREAMS 'I LOVED HER' " burst forth on yellow paper, in red ink, in front of his black eyes. "Go on," he heard.

The Casual Visitor stood on a waste paper box. "Even if the Law School should be the brains of the institution; even if the Little Theatre should have the talent; even if the Foresters do have the brawn; still the Journalism school is the Divine Articulation, the Moulder of Thought, the Swayer of the Mob." The reporters listened. "Now the English department . . ."

The visitor plucked an offending cuspidor from his eye. "SOLOONS PLAY CUPPY DADS" roared a new set of headlines. The Visitor threw himself into range of the target guns that barked around him. He was no longer news.

The Man in the Purple Shirt

"It is exactly sixteen chains to the bottom of the M," said jolly Frappe Le Chat, the jolly Forester. "And we have a new tractor, and H. L. G. who writes the funny, funny, poetry is a forester." Le Chat scratched himself a little. His wool shirt, very forester, was itching, a little.

"Dean Spaulding babies it a lot, you know. The tractor, I mean. He likes to fill the smaller grease cups so well. He calls it Babe, you know, after Paul Bunyon's Blue Ox. And the Forester's Ball is really the only event in the winter quarter that amounts to anything, you know." Frappe trained his transit on the Women's Gym. "I'm mapping the campus, you know."

"No one threw sugar bowls at the Forester's Ball feed. Only lettuce sandwiches, you know. And we have a log-tester, and isn't Lou Vierhus the biggest thing. And his mustache, you know." Le Chat lifted his hat to Lillian Shaw, who spoke pleasantly. "We have a rifle team; and a quartet, the one that sang at the basketball game, you know."

A loud blast from an air-whistle was heard from across the campus. Crowds of old hats moved swiftly toward the sound. Hobnails ruined young grass. "There's a Forester's Club meeting, you know," shouted Frappe Le Chat over his shoulder at me.

"We are going to buy tams for the faculty. Tams, you know, like we wear when we wish to achieve a blend of the great outdoors and the natty, naughty collegiate."

Tort and Retort

"We are on the campus six years, you see, and naturally we about run things before we are through." A young lawyer, or at least he hoped he was, nodded sagely for the benefit of the co-ed he was walking with, and any others who might want to look. "We have practice courts and a library."

"Excuse me, there's a man being run over." The lawyer shouldered a book and ran toward the agonized form. "You mustn't get up, you see; and don't settle the case out of court." The young man hesitated while he thrust out his chest. "We will fight this case through all the courts of the land; if we can make it last that long."

He blew a whistle. Twenty-three lawyers ran down the front steps of the law building. "We are witnesses," they shouted. "That's why we stand on the front steps all the time. One can't tell when someone will be run over, can one? And one wants one's witnesses handy, doesn't one?"

"Would you like a Corpus Dilecti or a writ," one asked the fallen man. "I can get you a divorce," said another. The hero of this piece, the first young lawyer, noted that his co-ed was still waiting for him. "Let us go to the bleachers and talk about campus politics," he said with dignity.

"The road to power is banked with legal words—deckled with Latin phrases. Lincoln was a lawyer. He was the greatest party of the first part law has known since Adam was ordered out of town."

Light Actions

The lights were dimmed and the voice of a man rang through the empty range of seats; empty, that is, except for four couples studying the art of self-expression in dark corners. "You hold her hand as if it were a ham sandwich," roared the man. "He does not," came in giggles from the darkness behind. "He is masterly."

Two people were on the empty stage; empty, that is, except for two people. "How can I leave Thee," quavered one. "I bleed with anguish! QUIET! My heart tells me one thing—SHUT UP OUT THERE—~~and you say another~~ . . ."

"Who do you think I am?" roared the white headed boy. "Wife to a famous man," snarled the vampire, as her children trooped in; twelve thousand of them. "This is the anniversary of the man born to be hanged, the boor." The sub-director, the third electrician, and the sample audience sneered in derision and unison: "Be sure to duck the cabbages. Be tense, be alive, live the part." They made the proposal under difficulties, for the will o' the wisp, Broadway, was calling to their agonized ambitions.

One young man with a gloomy brow thought of his name in lights. One young lady thought of an adoring public to be spurned. Another young lady thought loftily of art for art's sake. A youngster bowed (he thought) like David Barrymore. "The ladies are serving tea, in, the foyer . . . Shall we join the,—Ah, Miss Blumm, will you take my ahn?"

The Cascaret Club Mystery

"We work while others sleep," said the note found on the body. It looked like foul work. The Pharmacy Club butler had found the body in the hallway of the old Science building. He had not disturbed it at first, thinking that it was a student asleep. When it had not moved for six days, he looked closer and found that the head had been cut off. The note was pinned to the mustache. Barbed wire was wrapped around the left leg, the end being tucked in the right, upper, watch pocket. It looked like murder. University authorities were called.

"It looks like murder," said the University authorities. Barbizon Bunberry, detective, was called on the case. "It looks like murder," said Barbizon Bunberry, with precision; for that it was. It was murder.

After it was decided that the man was no longer alive, the matter was dropped. That afternoon a pharmacy student went upstairs in the old Science building. He was soon lost, but when to his great consternation he found a card on the table that read, "We work while others sleep," he left through a window in fright.

Later it was found that instead of a card, the second warning had been printed on the top of a small box. It was decided that there was no connection with the Cascaret Club Mystery.

Barbizon Bunberry went into seclusion for three weeks, coming out later with a solution. The solution was sodium hydroxide. "It was murder," said Bunberry.

WILMA, WE ARE HERE!

The train rushed past Bonner. Seniors sat drowsily in the crowded day-coach. A junior and his friend peered into the car from the swaying between-cars. A potential freshman got up and placed his ukelele carefully in his seat. He went forward to the smoker, wearing a world-weary, ultra-sophisticated look and his graduation suit.

A Dames' Agent walked into the smoking car. Every seat was occupied. No, there was one empty. And Padma J. Parag, our Hero, was sitting in that.

VANISHING ACT:

An Autumn drizzle and flitting students in slickers greeted the students as they fell from the train in Missoula. Fraternity grips and sorority kisses were exchanged. No one shook Padrine J. Foreep by the hand. He had a cardboard suitcase in each one, and a bundle of lunch, all gone except a banana and an egg under his arm. Besides, Pad had on his graduation overcoat.

So Pad donned his vanishing cloak. He pulled a yellow slicker and a Hot Hat out of his suitcase. He put them on, and was invisible.

HOW TO STOP A STREET CAR.

Padriac J. Forecep stood on Kelly's corner. A car marked U came along, stopped, and several people dashed out to get on. "Easy," he thought. "I'll get on the next one."

He walked up the street, peering into windows, more lavish than any he had ever seen. He stood on the next corner for twenty minutes; saw cars going in all directions, but none marked U. He waited, then one came. He stood on the curb and gathered himself. It passed him grindingly. The next day he learned how to stop a car.

"FORM A LINE."

Padriac J. Forcep walked resolutely up to Main Hall. He intended to register, and the line of his jaw was such that odds were favorable that he would register. This was the second day. The day before he had not been able to get inside the building. "Full of these Frat fellers," one freshman snorted.

Coming closer to the door, Pad heard laughter issuing. It was demoniacal, fantastic laughter. Cavernous, cadaverous laughter.

"It's the guys laughing at the funny instructions the business office posted," said a janitor mournfully.

THE CEREMONY.

Between halves at the first football game so understood Padriac J. Foreep, the Bear Paws were to be tapped. He liked this idea. He himself had suffered taps. He would enjoy the sight of the Paws getting theirs.

Amid certain silences, certain bursts of applause, certain blushful descents of new members, the old Bear Paws called new ones to take their places.

Paul turned to his room-mate, his eyes full of tears. "What in the world is the matter?" asked the roomie. "The ceremony," gurgled

Paul. "It is so impressive."

PAD APPEARS!

Since donning the Hot Hat and the yellow slicker, Pad of course had been invisible. His room-mate knew he was around because he occasionally bumped into him.

One day in Freshman Composition the hour had buzzed along very comfortably. Padrine J. Foreep was called on, and recited what he had read in a book. Other students woke up in their turn and spoke.

Then Pad joined two things he had learned, and arrived at a new thought. The prof looked up in surprise. Pad had become, for the moment, visible.

AN S. O. S.

At seven-thirty in the evening, men gathered on one side of the steps of Main Hall; women on the other. People talked. A man played the piano and everyone sang. The pitch was a little high for the men, a little low for the women.

As the clock struck eight there was a hush. "What are they doing now?" whispered Pauline J. Foreep. "Tsk," remarked the roommate. "They're trying to think up a motto."

THE DAY OF RECKONING.

Padriac J. Forcep stood in yet another line. He was waiting to be sneered at by the absence committee. He dawdled and watched the door open to admit depressed students. These were release through another door, mercifully.

Pad stepped inside. A group which looked like a sadistic tea-party awaited him. The Dean held out his hand for the absence forms. Pad, the friendly soul, grasped the proffered hand and shook it warmly.

COMPLETE DISAPPEARANCE.

Padriac J. Forcep wandered toward the oval. The May Fete was in progress. He was invisible to the majority of the spectators. Even to himself he seemed to be walking in a hazy cloud, just touching the earth with his toes; just a pair of eyes gleaming soberly at a form in white cheese-cloth that cavorted on the green with other like forms.

The fete was over. "Yes, Pad. I do love you," whispered Minnie. Nebulous forms of both converged to one. Eyes swam with spring malady; their friends could no more find them; they could not find themselves the rest of that spring.

When Pride Is Gone Respect Is Forgotten

The outward expression of a person's appearance, as foretold by the clothes he wears, whether highly educated or not, leads to a conclusive unexpressed opinion—be it favorable or unfavorable.

A man has to keep up his appearance if he wants to make a favorable impression.

Men skilled in their trades, profession—men who are foremost in the commercial fields—know the value and influence of good tailor-made clothes.

Better Wear Tailor-Made Clothes.

They Cost No More Than Others.
